

CONTACT:

Brandon McLarty

765.274.0321 (Voice/FAX)

Email: Bmclarty@1num.com

www.1Num.com

1Num provides communication resumption services

September 5, 2005 - 1Num provides communication resumption services via their communication overlay platform running on a national footprint. 1Num's communication environment allows businesses and consumers to take control of their lost phone identity by providing an answering point.

The service will ring up to 5 remote phones (staff cell phones, displaced worker locations, etc) simultaneously. The ring to numbers, called "ReachMe Numbers" can be changed instantaneously from any phone or web portal. Each account can receive FAXes and comes with a full featured voicemail account to store and retrieve messages that can be retrieved from a phone or email.

A business that has lost service or suffered damage to its location can either forward their existing phone number to their 1Num or they can port the number permanently to the 1Num. 1Num customer engineers can help make the right choice.

About 1Num Technology

With headquarters in Anderson, Indiana, 1Num Technology specializes in communication encapsulation enabling subscribers with a single contact number. The Company's has family, business and government service plans. The Company has phone numbers in 165 local markets and 25 states. 1Num also sells its services via resellers, agents and through the Internet. For more information about 1Num Technology, call 765.274.0321, or visit the Company's Web site at <http://www.1num.com>.